ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey Finds Canadian Employers
Project a Modest Hiring Climate for the Third Quarter of 2017;
Job Prospects Strongest in the Public Administration Sector

(Toronto, ON, June 13, 2017) – Canadian employers expect a modest hiring climate for job seekers in the third quarter of 2017, with employers in the Public Administration sector reporting the strongest job prospects according to the latest ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey, the most extensive, forward-looking employment survey in the world.

With seasonal variations removed from the data, the Net Employment Outlook of eight per cent is a one percentage point increase compared to the previous quarter and is an increase of two percentage points from the Outlook reported during the same time last year.

The survey of over 1,900 employers across Canada reveals that 17 per cent plan to increase their staffing levels in the third quarter of 2017, while four per cent anticipate cutbacks. Of the employers surveyed, 78 per cent expect their current staffing levels to remain unchanged and one per cent are unsure about their hiring intentions for the upcoming quarter.

“The overall tone for the third quarter is one of cautious optimism,” said Darlene Minatel, Vice recovering from the effects of low oil prices, we're seeing slow but steady job growth in many urban areas across the country, a positive sign for the months ahead.”
